Police Kill One Of Two Bandits In Bloody Battle

Other Gunman, 2 Officers Wounded

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Two detectives interrupted a drug store holdup Sunday and fought a bloody gun duel with two bandits. One gunman was slain. The other—wounded as were both officers—fled with a hostage he released shortly before police flushed him from a hideout.

Still defiant, 32-year-old Ivan L. Deckard of Heltonville, Ind., bragged to arresting officers: "I'm not yellow, I just ran out of ammunition."

The 6-foot-3 Deckard, sought since staging a human fly escape from the federal building here April 13, was bleeding from an arm wound when police cornered him in an attic about two hours later and five miles away.

Killed by a bullet in the heart at the scene of the holdup in suburban University City was Herbert John Lorts, 34, an ex-convict.

Wounded in the Sunday morning gun fight in Irwin's Drug Store were Detectives Raymond Bruno, 52, and Stanley Topper, 36.

Bruce Zuckerman, 27-year-old son of drug store owner Irwin Zuckerman, was talking to his girlfriend from a phone booth when the bandits barged in.

"Call the police," young Zuckerman told her, "I must hang up."

The detectives, who arrived moments later, were taken to county hospital. Their conditions were described as satisfactory.

The hostage, unarmed but jittery after his experience with Deckard, was Richard Wetzel, 23, of suburban Wellston.

Deckard grabbed Wetzel at the home of the young truck driver's fiancée, 18-year-old Janet Fischer. The slim, wiry desperado, seeking to throw off pursuing officers, took

Ike Hopeful For A-Test Ban Talks

Leaves Colorado With New College Degree And Suntan

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—President Eisenhower left Colorado Sunday with rekindled hope the Soviet Union is agreeable to negotiate on banning nuclear tests, taking with him a new college degree and a bit of suntan.

The President and his family departed for Washington aboard the presidential plane Columbine III at 1:07 p.m., exactly 24 hours after his Colorado arrival.

Among those on hand to see the President off were Gov. Steve McNichols of Colorado, a Democrat, and his wife. About 1,000 persons were at the air base.

The President and his party came directly to the air base from the home of Mrs. Eisenhower's ailing mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, where a crowd of some 200 waved as the chief executive departed.

President Tours City

Earlier in the morning, Eisenhower made a two-hour tour of the city with his long-time Denver friend and fishing companion, Aksel Nielsen, a businessman.

The President took the ride to get a close view of Denver's rapid growth in recent months.

Eisenhower revealed late Saturday he had advised Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev the United States is willing to consider a ban on nuclear weapons tests beyond 30 miles in altitude. He did not specify any new ceiling. His letter to Khrushchev was dated May 5.

Shortly before he left Washington early Saturday, Eisenhower was supplied with a translation of Khrushchev's reply in which the Soviet leader indicated the U.S.S.R. is agreeable to early technical talks on methods of detecting high-altitude nuclear blasts.

Khrushchev Hopeful
Khrushchev informed the President he sees hope for agreement on ending all nuclear weapons tests.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said in Denver the reply "apparently seems to indicate readiness on the part of Premier Khrushchev to negotiate. However, it is clear that there are parts of his letter that are not at all responsive to the President's letter of May 5."

Hagerty told reporters the Soviet reply "is now under study." Eisenhower received an honorary bachelor of science degree and the light suntan Saturday during a whirlwind tour of the sprawling 17,800-acre Air Force Academy.

Five Children Burn To Death

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Five children burned to death Sunday in an early morning fire which swept their third floor apartment.

Police said the fire started in the three-room apartment when the mother, Mrs. Dorothy Stocker, 41, fell asleep on her bed with a lighted cigarette.

The charred bodies of the children, James, 7; Marcia, 4; twin girls, Gale and Dale, 3; and Stephanie, 17-months, were found in the apartment.

Detective Rocco Vivarino said Mrs. Stocker awoke smelling smoke. She raced downstairs to the second floor apartment of Mrs. Willie Mae Barkly and roused her.

When the two women tried to get up the stairs, their way was blocked by flames. They roused the other tenants in the building and fled to the street.

Gross National Output's Climb Underestimated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The climb in national output in the first three months of 1959 was steeper than preliminary figures indicated, the government reported Sunday.

The Commerce Department said the gross national product—the value of all goods and services produced—rose 14 billion dollars to a record annual rate of 467 billion. This was two billion more than the official estimate a month ago.

Gains in payrolls and profits have accompanied the upsurge in market demand, which was based primarily on two factors:

1. Businessmen began building up inventories. Stocks were increased at an annual rate of $5,700,000,000 in the first quarter, after standing unchanged in the last three months of 1958.

2. Individual Americans bought more than ever before in history. Spending for personal consumption was up $4,600,000,000 to a record 300% billion.

Although no totals were given because data is incomplete, the report said national income climbed about 11 billion dollars for the third straight quarter, also setting a new record.

The report emphasized that most of the increase in national output during the past year has been real. That is, bigger volume had more to do with it than higher prices.

Output has risen 40 billion dollars, or close to 10 per cent, from its recession low in the first quarter of last year. The report said that even after higher price tags are taken into account, the rise amounted to 8 per cent.

Only one segment of the gross national product declined, but the drop was significant. Exports of goods and services, after declining steadily for a year, finally failed to match imports. The deficit was 300 million dollars.

D.C. Cops Take Dim View Of Beatnik's Bagel Bistro

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bearded beatnik plans to bring a bagel picture to Washington. But the police say no.

William Walker, the 24-year-old would-be proprietor, intends to call his enterprise the Coffee and Confusion Club.

It would be patterned somewhat after the Coexistence Bagel Shop in San Francisco, mecca for beatniks. No liquor would be sold. Only coffee, pastries, biscuits, cream cheese, and, of course, bagels.

Bagels are hard rolls with a hole in the middle. Someone once described them as doughnuts dipped in concrete.

Walker and his wife, a 22-year-old Vassar graduate, have found an abandoned basement restaura-

Eddie Cantor's Oldest Daughter Dies Of Cancer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Marjorie Cantor, eldest of comedian Eddie Cantor's five daughters, died of cancer Sunday at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. She was 44.

The 67-year-old comedian, who has been ailing himself lately, was put under sedation and his doctor said he was unable to speak to anybody.

Only Miss Cantor's sisters were present at the time of death as they had been trying to protect their elderly parents from the shock.

One of the sisters, Marilyn, told United Press International: "She's had cancer for two years. We knew about it but we kept it from daddy and mother until seven weeks ago when she entered the hospital."

Battle Lines Drawn For Housing Battle

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican leaders said Sunday they were counting on new economic and employment gains to boost their fight against a multi-billion dollar Democratic housing bill which comes up for action in the House Tuesday.

Neither side was willing to predict victory in what could be the bitterest budget fight of the year.

Rep. Leo E. Allen (R-Ill.) one top GOP strategist, conceded the vote would be "close."

But he told a reporter he believed that improved job figures and U.S. production gains announced last week would help chances for a more modest $1,300,000,000 "compromise."

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Mrs. Harry S. Truman was still in Research Hospital Sunday. A hospital spokesman said the wife of the former President is undergoing tests in connection with a routine checkup. She entered the hospital Thursday.

Nixon Planning N. H. Political Scouting Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon is planning a scouting trip to New Hampshire this fall that could lead to his entry in that state's presidential primary next year.

Nixon has agreed tentatively to speak at ground-breaking ceremonies for a flood control dam near Concord in September. Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) wants to book Nixon for a speech at a Manchester political rally the same day.

Although Nixon has made no final decision on tactics, most of his associates expect him to enter the presidential primaries in an effort to demonstrate that he has wide grass roots support for the 1960 Republican nomination.

Because it is the first held in the nation each presidential year, the New Hampshire balloting has produced some weighty psychological results in the past. Gen. Eisenhower's defeat of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft there in 1952 bolstered the "Taft can't win" campaign that went a long way toward denying the Ohio senator the nomination.

When Harold E. Stassen was trying futilely to get Republicans to dump Nixon from their ticket in 1956, Bridges passed the word to the party faithful and they rolled up 18,000-write-in votes to show their confidence in the vice president.

This backlog of support may come in handy for Nixon if he faces a primary test in New Hampshire with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Most politicians think Nixon is stronger in New Hampshire now than he was three years ago. If he runs in the primary he will have the backing of the Bridges organization, which appears to have deep political roots in the state.

Chinese Nationalist, Red Artillery Duel

TAIPEI (AP)—Chinese Nationalists and Communists fought a 90-minute artillery duel at the northern end of Formosa Strait Sunday after Communist gunners unleashed their heaviest attack yet on the Matsu Islands.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry claimed Communist guns on the mainland coast were silenced by effective counterfire. By Nationalist count, the Reds fired 444 shells, of which 162 hit Matsu Island, 112 Peikantang Island and 170 landed in the sea.

House Group Probe Aimed At Tax Slash

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chairman Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.) announced Sunday that the House Ways & Means Committee is launching an extensive inquiry aimed at "significant" income tax cuts, presumably next year.

He said the committee, which originates all federal tax legislation, hopes the tax base can be broadened enough to permit "significant" reductions in individual and corporation income tax rates without sacrificing the revenues needed by the government.

The committee time-table appeared designed to permit congressional action on taxes before the 1960 presidential elections. Democrats and Republicans alike would like to lay a tax reduction before the voters.

President Eisenhower has been hinting at 1960 tax cuts. He told a TV audience in January, however, that chances for reductions depended largely on the treatment given his 77 billion dollar budget by the Democratic Congress.

This irked the Democrats. They said the President's budget was so precariously balanced it was almost certain to wind up in the red.

Mills said in a statement that his committee's forthcoming study will be aimed at "constructive reform" of the federal tax system. Mills said the committee will take testimony from tax experts in public hearings beginning next Nov. 2 and then try to develop legislation.

Baby Suffocates In Plastic Cover

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa. (UPI)—A 10-month old boy suffocated Sunday with a plastic covering wrapped around his head—the second such death of a Pennsylvania child in five days.

The child, William George Houser, became entangled in the plastic couch cover as he lay on a divan in his parents' home.

The child's father, James, was sleeping in an adjacent room and did not hear his son's cries.

Last Wednesday, Wayne Rampero, 11 months old, of Baldwin, suffocated when he drew a light plastic bag over his head. His mother said later she had placed five of the bags on a dresser about a foot from Wayne's crib.

The bags later were found strewn over the crib.

A recent wave of "plastic bag" deaths of children across the country has sparked a national clamor and evoked a warning from the National Safety Council for parents to get rid of the dangerous bags.

Cecil said his brother had been questioned "several times" by the FBI and one time was kept all night and brought home at dawn.

He added that their mother was "on the verge of a breakdown" because of the FBI's grilling.

The latest disclosure of questioning of a Poplarville citizen by the FBI came as a break in the lynching case was reported imminent. An authoritative source close to the investigation of the Negro's jailhouse abduction and slaying said at least seven Mississippians would be arrested "pretty soon."

Scores Injured At Rodeo When Bleachers Fall

MAYETTA, Kan. (AP)—A section of bleachers holding an estimated 300 persons collapsed at a rodeo here Sunday before the eyes of nearly 6,000 other spectators. At least 56 were injured seriously enough to be rushed to hospitals at Topeka and Holton.

Mayetta is about 20 miles north of Topeka, the Kansas state capital, and Holton is 10 miles north of Mayetta.

Thirty were taken to St. Francis Hospital, Topeka, said 11 injured had arrived there. Attendees said three appeared to be more seriously injured and had been admitted. The remaining injured were treated in the hospital's emergency room.

At Holton, hospital officials said 15 injured had arrived. Rich Clarkson, photographer for the Topeka Daily Capital, reported from the scene that an estimated 50 to 100 were injured and another 100 received minor scratches and bruises.

The bleacher collapse occurred during the final performance of a four-day rodeo.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The condition of John Foster Dulles, 71, year-old former secretary of state who is seriously ill with cancer, was reported unchanged Sunday.

The State Department reported Friday a further decline in his condition and said Saturday there was no further change. A department spokesman said there was nothing further to report Sunday

Allies May Ask Interim Agreement

Negotiations For Temporary Accord May Follow Debate

GENEVA (AP)—Western diplomats said Sunday night they may have to negotiate a separate stopgap settlement with the Soviet Union after full debate of rival East-West German peace plans.

Word of the new Western position came after an American delegation spokesman called for thoroughgoing discussion in the Big Four foreign ministers meeting of the West's package plan. This envisages a phased program toward settlement of the future of Berlin and Germany and the buildup of a European security system.

U.S. Asst. Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding told newsmen: "We are going into the next few days of the conference with the hope and expectation of getting into detailed discussion of the Western proposal."

"We also take it for granted that the Russians want us to do the same thing with their draft peace treaty."

Soviets Snub Package Idea

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko offered Friday a five-month-old Soviet draft peace pact as the basis of his country's policy for a German settlement. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has snubbed the package approach, but said some parts—not specified—of the package are worth talking about.

As things stand now the West has allowed for an interim status to be negotiated for Berlin—but only as part of a general package settlement of the over-all German and European security problems.

But American and British diplomats reported privately Sunday that the Western foreign ministers see no chance at all of any early definite settlement of the German problem on the basis either of the Western or Soviet proposals.

Therefore, they have decided to invoke a decision, secretly reached in Paris in April by the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany, to seek some sort of separate stopgap Berlin settlement with the Russians.

Conference Resumes
Any such interim arrangement would be made to hinge on the ultimate conclusion of a wider agreement reuniting Germany.

Within that eventual unification accord Berlin could be restored to its proper place as the capital city of Germany.

The Big Four ministers, flanked by their East and West German advisers, resume their conference Monday, after a weekend break, with Gromyko in the chair.

The decision to revert to a fallback position would change the public, rather than the private, posture of the West. It has long been recognized by the West that a Berlin stopgap settlement was inevitable because to some extent both East and West were in danger of committing themselves to irretrievable courses of action.

American officials privately conceded a stopgap Berlin settlement would really solve little, because Berlin's future is so inextricably linked with that of divided Germany. But, they added, some temporary arrangement might serve to stave off a further deepening of the East-West crisis, which the Soviets precipitated last November with their demands for Western military evacuation of Berlin.

Starting point for any East-West talks on the city as a separate issue remains the proposal contained in the package plan. This contemplated merging the Eastern and Western sectors of Berlin to form a united city guaranteed by the Big Four, run by a city council which would be set up through free elections.

The West is awaiting a Soviet assault on the American-British-French package of proposals for

Police Kill One Of Two Bandits In Bloody Battle

Other Gunman, 2 Officers Wounded

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Two detectives interrupted a drug store holdup Sunday and fought a bloody gun duel with two bandits. One gunman was slain. The other—wounded as were both officers—fled with a hostage he released shortly before police flushed him from a hideout.

Still defiant, 32-year-old Ivan L. Deckard of Heltonville, Ind., bragged to arresting officers: "I'm not yellow, I just ran out of ammunition."

The 6-foot-3 Deckard, sought since staging a human fly escape from the federal building here April 13, was bleeding from an arm wound when police cornered him in an attic about two hours later and five miles away.

Killed by a bullet in the heart at the scene of the holdup in suburban University City was Herbert John Lorts, 34, an ex-convict.

Wounded in the Sunday morning gun fight in Irwin's Drug Store were Detectives Raymond Bruno, 52, and Stanley Topper, 36.

Bruce Zuckerman, 27-year-old son of drug store owner Irwin Zuckerman, was talking to his girlfriend from a phone booth when the bandits barged in.

"Call the police," young Zuckerman told her. "I must hang up."

The detectives, who arrived moments later, were taken to county hospital. Their conditions were described as satisfactory.

The hostage, unharmed but jittery after his experience with Deckard, was Richard Wetzel, 23, of suburban Wellston.

Deckard grabbed Wetzel at the home of the young truck driver's fiancée, 18-year-old Janet Fischer. The slim, wiry desperado, seeking to throw off pursuing officers, took refuge in the Fischer home and terrorized the family before agreeing to take only Wetzel with him.

"I wasn't too scared while driving Deckard in my car," Wetzel said, "but after it was all over it hit me. I got a little nervous."

Wetzel said Deckard told him: "This is my type of living, but I'm not a blood-thirsty killer. I don't want to hurt anybody."

Deckard, arrested last month for totting a submachine gun, scrambled out of Wetzel's car on the north side of St. Louis and headed for the home of an oft-arrested pal.

Police following the Wetzel car kept their distance because Deckard had threatened to kill his hostage if they came too close.

They lost sight of the car, but while cruising the neighborhood came upon Wetzel.

Acting on a hunch, Detective Chief James Chapman and a police detail stopped alongside a taxi parked outside the apartment of Curt Link, 30.

The cab driver told them he was waiting for a fare. Link's wife, Jeannine, 28, called out that she would be right down.

Chapman and his men entered the building. As three officers started up stairs leading to a dingy attic, Deckard shouted: "Don't shoot. I'm coming down."

Officers later found an unloaded snub-nosed revolver in the attic.

Mitchell Gives Grads Advice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell gave 1959 college graduates two bits of advice Sunday: Continue your schooling if possible and find the job that suits you.

In an open letter to graduates, Mitchell said the recent recession underlined a known fact.

That is, the more educated and skilled a person is the better a chance he has to get and hold a job and enjoy bigger pay.

"The premium on excellence is constantly going up," Mitchell said, adding: "The recession holds a lesson especially applicable to you graduates who may be considering additional schooling."

"While nearly one in five unskilled laborers was experiencing unemployment, only one in fifty professional and technical workers were jobless. Jobs of production workers were cut back sharply. Employment of white collar workers held relatively steady."

Mitchell said the college graduate should measure a job possibility against his own individual capability and desires.

"Work should be a creative and rewarding experience," he said. "Find the job that suits you as an individual person."

Sen. Bridges' Brother Feared Drowned

PEMBROKE, Maine (AP)—Dr. Ronald Bridges, 53, of Sanford, religious advisor to the U.S. Information Service and a brother of Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) was reported missing on a fishing trip Sunday.

Coast Guard officials said a resident found Dr. Bridges' small boat overturned in the Penobscot River near this Washington County small community where he was born.

A recent wave of "plastic bag" deaths of children across the country has sparked a national clamor and evoked a warning from the National Safety Council for parents to get rid of the dangerous bags.

Man Quizzed In Negro's Lynching Suffers Stroke

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (UPI) — A farm worker, who was grilled by FBI agents about the lynching of Mack Charles Parker, was reported in serious condition Sunday after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage.

Arthur Smith, about 32, was hospitalized here after being interrogated by the FBI. His physician, who asked to be unnamed, said: "The cerebral hemorrhage was brought on by extremely high blood pressure, and it's very possible this was the result of intensive questioning by the FBI."

Smith was rushed to a hospital Saturday afternoon and his doctor said he would reach a crisis within 72 hours after the attack when his condition will either improve or worsen.

The physician said Smith had lost all power of speech and only muttered and made noises. He added that Smith recognized only his wife.

Smith's brother, Cecil, said: "Arthur was a husky, healthy man who's never been hospitalized. It looks like to me they've got to leave Arthur alone now."

Cecil said his brother had been questioned "several times" by the FBI and one time was kept all night and brought home at dawn.

He added that their mother was "on the verge of a breakdown" because of the FBI's grilling.

The latest disclosure of questioning of a Poplarville citizen by the FBI came as a break in the lynching case was reported imminent. An authoritative source close to the investigation of the Negro's jailhouse abduction and slaying said at least seven Mississippians would be arrested "pretty soon."

Allies May Ask Interim Agreement

Negotiations For Temporary Accord
May Follow Debate

GENEVA (AP)—Western diplomats said Sunday night they may have to negotiate a separate stopgap settlement with the Soviet Union after full debate of rival East-West German peace plans.

Word of the new Western position came after an American delegation spokesman called for thoroughgoing discussion in the Big Four foreign ministers meeting of the West's package plan. This envisages a phased program toward settlement of the future of Berlin and Germany and the buildup of a European security system.

U.S. Asst. Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding told newsmen: "We are going into the next few days of the conference with the hope and expectation of getting into detailed discussion of the Western proposal."

"We also take it for granted that the Russians want us to do the same thing with their draft peace treaty."

Soviets Snub Package Idea

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko offered Friday a five-month-old Soviet draft peace pact as the basis of his country's policy for a German settlement. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has snubbed the package approach, but said some parts—not specified—of the package are worth talking about.

As things stand now the West has allowed for an interim status to be negotiated for Berlin—but only as part of a general package settlement of the over-all German and European security problems.

But American and British diplomats reported privately Sunday that the Western foreign ministers see no chance at all of any early definite settlement of the German problem on the basis either of the Western or Soviet proposals.

Therefore, they have decided to invoke a decision, secretly reached in Paris in April by the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany, to seek some sort of separate stopgap Berlin settlement with the Russians.

Conference Resumes

Any such interim arrangement would be made to hinge on the ultimate conclusion of a wider agreement reuniting Germany. Within that eventual unification accord Berlin could be restored to its proper place as the capital city of Germany.

The Big Four ministers, flanked by their East and West German advisers, resume their conference Monday, after a weekend break, with Gromyko in the chair.

The decision to revert to a fall-back position would change the public, rather than the private, posture of the West. It has long been recognized by the West that a Berlin stopgap settlement was inevitable because to some extent both East and West were in danger of committing themselves to irretrievable courses of action.

American officials privately conceded a stopgap Berlin settlement would really solve little, because Berlin's future is so inextricably linked with that of divided Germany. But, they added, some temporary arrangement might serve to stave off a further deepening of the East-West crisis, which the Soviets precipitated last November with their demands for Western military evacuation of Berlin.

Starting point for any East-West talks on the city as a separate issue remains the proposal contained in the package plan. This contemplated merging the Eastern and Western sectors of Berlin to form a united city guaranteed by the Big Four, run by a city council which would be set up through free elections.

The West is awaiting a Soviet assault on the American-British-French package of proposals for (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Southern Editors View Integration As Inevitable

NEW YORK (AP)—Three Pulitzer prize-winning Southern editors say some degree of school integration is inevitable through the South, forced by economic and parental pressures.

But all three believe resistance to any but token integration will continue and be effective for a long time in the Deep South.

The editors, Hodding Carter of the Greenville, Miss., Delta Democrat Times; Ralph McGill of the Atlanta Constitution, and Harry Ashmore of the Arkansas Gazette at Little Rock, gave their views in separate articles in the current issue of the Saturday Review.

Carter predicted general improvement in the nation's race relations in the future, and an increase in parental pressure to keep Southern schools open. He also said he already sees signs of "waning interest" in the segregationist White Citizens Councils.

He said the recent Supreme Court decision upholding Alabama's pupil placement laws, if they do not perpetuate segregation, "has determined what lies immediately ahead."

"In effect," he said, "the court has given at least temporary approval to 'token integration.' It is probable that the Southern states, or most of them, will come to rely on similar placement statutes and, under them admit selected Negro students in small numbers to schools involved in or threatened with court proceedings."

"But it is my opinion," he added, "that integration of Negro and white school children in the Deep South, in any meaningful numbers, will not take place in the foreseeable future — and by that I mean at least another full generation and probably longer."

McGill predicted that in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi—the states where slavery and plantation economy were most widespread — resistance to integration "will be enduring and lacking in any rationality."

He said, however, that two major factors are at work against extreme segregationists.

"The first, and perhaps the most powerful," he said, "is that of economics. Closed schools do not go well with new industries. The prospective economic losses in a region hungry for more industry are just beginning to be seen and comprehended."

The second factor McGill termed the leadership of the cities. "He said they are planning fights to keep the schools open and predicted that although they probably will not succeed, their efforts 'will shorten the period of tragedy.'"

Ashmore said the "great flaw of the Southern style" is the lack of "the critical faculty—the ability to distinguish between the world as it is and the world as we would like it to be."

New England Chilly; Kansas Has Floods

By The Associated Press

Showers and thunderstorms splashed northward across the plains from the Gulf Sunday and a cool front moving out of the Great Lakes region chilled New England.

Locally heavy rains soaked central Kansas, causing minor flooding along the Cottonwood River west of Emporia.

In Kansas, Cedar Point was deluged by a 7½-inch downpour during a five-hour period. Florence was pelted with between six and seven inches and five inches fell at Matfield Green.

There was no threat of severe flooding in the communities, authorities said.

Patches of showers and thunderstorms ranged from Texas across the central plains to the Pacific Northeast. Light snow fell in the higher elevations of the northern Rockies.

Rain also dampened parts of the Ohio Valley. Crisp temperatures gripped parts of New England, causing scattered frost. Albany, N. Y., reported a 30-degree reading during the pre-dawn hours.

Outing Turns Into Tragedy

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (AP)—John Greynolds Jr., his wife and their three children got into the family car to drive to a carnival Saturday.

But the trip barely got under way before it turned into tragedy. Two neighbor boys who had been playing under the car screamed as the car started to pull away.

David Wilson, 7, crawled out, took a few steps and collapsed. His playmate, David A. Patrick, 6, lay motionless.

Greynolds rushed the boys to Fairmont General Hospital from his home in nearby Monongah. David Patrick died shortly afterward despite an emergency operation on his heart. He had suffered a broken neck and skull.

David Wilson is in the hospital in critical condition with several injuries.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two teenage boys snatched a brief case containing more than $800 from a northeast Washington gas station owner Saturday night.

Edward Ortman, of Seat Pleasant, Md., told police the boys grabbed the case, containing the day's receipts, as he was climbing into his car.

Public Hearings Sought On Nuclear Plane Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.) said Sunday he plans to try again to hold public hearings this year on whether the Pentagon is guilty of foot-dragging and indecision in developing a nuclear-powered plane.

The Senate-House Atomic Energy Research and Development subcommittee, which Price heads, had scheduled its first such hearing last week. It was called off because of the death May 8 of Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald A. Quarles, who was to have been the principal witness.

Price had hoped the public airing would give the nuclear-powered plane project a push he long has contended it needs.

There is some confusion now about just how hard Pentagon officials intend to push the project. On Friday, Lt. Gen. Roscoe C. Wilson, Air Force research chief, said Quarles' last decision before his death was to ask President Eisenhower's permission to step up the development of a nuclear-powered plane. He said, such a recommendation had been sent to the President.

Saturday, the Defense Department officially denied Wilson's statement. It said the question was still under consideration, that no decision had been made and no recommendation had been sent to the White House.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Start At The Top

A girl that has popularity problems could well take inventory of herself.

Let's start at the top. Stand before a mirror and take a good look at your hair. Does it shine or is it dull?

Is your hair in a style that beautifies your facial outline and individual features? Experiment with different hairdos and when you find one that is properly styled you'll see how magically it will beautify your features.

Here's a small hint to add luster. Follow your shampoo with a cream rinse. Not only will it give you the glamorous highlights you want, but it will make your hair more manageable.

Has your brush been used lately, or is it hiding in a drawer? It will be of little value to you unless you make up your mind to use it once or twice a day. If you stopped to realize that that top-knot of yours collects more than 10 times as much dust in a day as does your skin, then you will know how important daily brushing is if you are to keep it clean.

To brush properly—brush with your head down. This will stimulate the scalp, as blood is brought to the surface. And you will transfer the dirt from the imbrications of your hair to those of the brush. Ever so often scrub the dirt and dust of the brush off on a dry towel.

Use a natural bristle brush. Nylon bristles are only smooth shiny stiff pieces of chemical and can't remove dirt, dust or odors from the hair.

Speaking of odors . . . a girl can't be too clean and fastidious about her hair. In dancing, a man certainly couldn't find a girl glamorous if he knew her hair needed a bout with the shampoo board.

Hair holds oil, glandular fluids and perspiration from your scalp. Daily brushing with natural bristles can help remove these.

During the warmer months when you're taking part in more exercises, you perspire more freely. You may find that you'll need to shampoo your hair more often. Once a week is usual, but don't hesitate if you need more frequent dousings. Your hair's health and beauty both thrive on the individual treatment best suited to it. So be sure to find and use the right shampoos and rinses for your hair, too. Also, wash your brush once a week or oftener with a little ammonia water plus a mild detergent. Place the bristles down so you won't lose them from the handle. And when you set your hair use clips instead of bobby pins.

Summarize your whole appearance while you're at it! Start at the top, but don't stop there, as does your skin, then you will know how important daily brushing is if you are to keep it clean.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠A9 ♥A7432 ♦KJ865 ♣106

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass

2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. This hand was practically good enough for a two over one response originally and is consequently worth one further try for game. Partner, in all probability has a six card suit since he failed to show another suit over your no trump response. Your ace-nine will be adequate support.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠AK3 ♥QJ104 ♦632 ♣A104

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Double Redouble Pass

Pass 1 ♠ Pass Pass

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump. True, you have no diamond stopper, but your hand is otherwise of the no trump type and partner, for his redouble, seems marked with some strength in diamonds. A pass, of course, is not to be considered as partner's bid of a four card suit for one round, particularly in light of his previous redouble.

Q. 3—Your partner opens with one diamond and as South you hold:

♠A ♥J ♦Q109862 ♣Q10643

What is your response?

A.—Five diamonds. This is not a hand design for scientific bidding. The opponents could easily have a game in one of the majors which they may have no trouble in reaching if you keep the bidding at a low level. Furthermore a thorough exchange of information with partner will still leave you in doubt as to the best contract, so you might just as well take a stab at five diamonds.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠A Q 8 5 ♥A Q 8 7 3 ♦A J 7 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ 2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—While it appears that the opponents have most of the missing high cards, partner may still be found with enough distributional values to produce a game. The best way to find out is a double, requesting partner to take some action and giving him a reasonable choice between hearts and spades.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠10 ♥K9863 ♦AQ7 ♣Q632

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five clubs. Your hand should produce several tricks for partner with the fine diamond fit and your ability to ruff out his spade losers. There could even be a slam which your jump may encourage partner to bid. We would not give serious consideration to a bid of three no trump.

Q. 6—East opens with one heart and as South you hold:

♠83 ♥A5 ♦AKQ1064 ♣A102

What do you bid?

A.—Two no trump. This is somewhat irregular from the standpoint of high card values. But you have eight potential winners and in spite of the lack of a spade stopper you should be willing to contract for game if partner has the smattering of stuff he needs to offer you a raise.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠AK10854 ♥K9854 ♣J9

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

2 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass

3 ♠ Pass 3 NT Pass

What do you bid?

A.—With this highly unbalanced hand we would force partner into a preference by bidding four diamonds. This will describe a holding of six spades and five diamonds.

Q. 8—East opens with three diamonds and as South you hold:

♠A ♥A2 ♦KQ1086 ♣Q9843

What do you bid?

A.—It would be pleasant to double for penalties but, unfortunately, partner would not construe your double as business. It is a moral certainty that he would bid some number of hearts or spades. This you are not prepared for and the discreet choice is to pass and take a sure profit.

MORGANTOWN—W. D. Tucker, Lewisburg, president of the West Virginia Poultry Association has just announced the dates for this year's State Poultry Convention, according to Harold M. Hyre, associate poultry husbandman at West Virginia University. Hyre is chairman of the publicity committee for the Convention.

This year's Convention will be held July 29-31 at Moorefield, Hardy County. The business meeting will be conducted on the afternoon of July 29 and the educational part of the program will be held on the following two days, July 30-31.

The program committee is planning a full program to cover many phases of the poultry industry, Hyre said here today. Members of the program committee include Dave Van Meter, Petersburg; W. D. Tucker, Lewisburg; Ray Williams, Wolf Summit; Dr. Homer Patrick, Morgantown, and Ted R. Hash, Morgantown, chairman.

In addition to the Poultry Convention, there will be a Poultry Festival which will include a beauty pageant, a poultry parade and a king-size poultry barbecue. "Anyone interested is invited to attend the Convention and those who desire will be given an opportunity to take an active part in the discussion of the various topics," Hyre stressed. "All West Virginia poultrymen are urged to attend these meetings and to help build a strong poultry industry in the Mountain State."

Lack Of Funds Problem At Area School

HYNDMAN — Hyndman-Londonderry School District is in danger of going into the red financially next year unless increased state aid is forthcoming, and it cannot afford to carry out proposed expansions of its high school curriculum without more help. Supervising Principal Lloyd G. Keller says.

Keller said the district, smallest in Bedford county, is faced with a tax dilemma because of its location and partly due to constantly rising costs of instruction, especially supplies and salaries.

The district lies on the Maryland line, Hyndman borough has a 30-mill real estate and $15 per capita tax now, while Londonderry Township has a 40-mill real estate levy and a $15 per capita tax.

The wage tax, popular as a "new" tax source in many districts, is impractical in the district because of geography, Keller contends. He says school estimates are that 75 per cent of Hyndman wage-earners earn their money in nearby Cumberland or surrounding Allegany county, Maryland, and thus cannot be reached by a wage tax enactment locally.

Mr. Keller said the average cost per unit of instruction in the district last year was about $6,200 and this figure will rise $250 to $300 this year.

State maximum subsidies now provide only $5,800 per unit. Keller said passage of a pending state law to hike subsidies will mean $12,000, the difference between red and black ink, yearly to the small jointure here.

The school has plans to add two mathematics courses, one business math and the other general, in the senior year in high school, and to expand its offerings of physics and chemistry. The moves would require one new teacher, and would be impossible under present financing, Keller declares. Also to be added next year, by law, are remedial reading courses for seventh and eighth graders.

National Thrift In 13 Figures

The American economy must now be discussed in terms of billions of dollars. And it may not be long until Americans are talking in trillions.

Even now studies by the U. S. Department of Commerce show that investment-type expenditures by business and industry, by the consumer and by government bodies since the beginning of the 1950s add up to almost a trillion dollars. The annual figure has been above $100 billion in each of the last nine years, so when 1959 totals are included the figure for the decade promises to run up to 13 digits.

These expenditures that increase the nation's tangible wealth have brought Americans more than 10 million new homes, hundreds of billions of dollars in additional industrial production, and through outlays by government, many new schools, roads, sewer systems and the like.

Thrift on the part of business accounts for investments of $367 billion during the first nine years of the 1950s. Consumers' investment-type expenditures, including such items as new houses, new automobiles, were just under $450 billion. Finally, various levels of government in the country joined together to lay out $105 billion.

The consumer's role in this display of national thrift is important not only because of the major share which he has poured into the national growth. The year-to-year analysis shows that of the three categories his contribution has been most constant.

He has resisted recessionary influences more successfully than the others. Which is to say that the consumer is the economy's stabilizer.

It Is So Puzzling

It is indeed difficult to understand exactly what Senator Clinton Anderson complains about concerning the nomination of Lewis L. Strauss to be Secretary of Commerce. Thus far, there has been no evidence that Strauss is incapable of holding the position of Secretary of Commerce. To the contrary, it is admitted that he is altogether capable of holding that position.

Senator Clinton Anderson's objection to Strauss has nothing to do with the Department of Commerce and really seems to come down to two points:

1. That Lewis Strauss claimed that he alone accomplished the development of the hydrogen bomb and as others had to do with that, Strauss lied. I have gone over contemporaneous literature on the subject and can find no evidence that Strauss ever claimed sole, exclusive performance in developing the hydrogen bomb. He did have much to do with it but obviously he could not have been its author, for Strauss is not a scientist; he is a banker and an administrator. And while he is a gentleman of considerable culture and can speak the jargon of the scientists and undoubtedly knows what H2O is, he could not have claimed greater honors than Dr. Edward Teller.

So, it must be that Senator Anderson is barking up the wrong tree and there must be a reason. The reason, of course, could be a very human one.

2. Another objection that Senator Anderson raises is that Lewis Strauss, as head of the Atomic Energy Commission, did not keep Senator Anderson, as head of the Congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, adequately informed as to what was happening in the Commission. Strauss claims that he did keep the Committee informed. Anderson, at one point, objected that Strauss sent too much data and apparently the Senator had not the time or preparation or energy to absorb and digest it. Congressman Price of Illinois, in 1955, said:

"... there is no agency of the Government that keeps in closer contact with the legislative part than the Atomic Energy Commission."

By law, it is compelled to keep the Congress currently and fully informed and members of the Commission are before our Committee almost daily with new problems. I don't know of any other Congressional Committee that functions in the same way...

This is all matter of opinion. One says he gave all the information he had; the other says that it was either too much, a veritable flood, and therefore could not be digested or that much was withheld.

As one reads all this, something is missing. It has nothing to do with the Department of Commerce which seems to be ignored in this discussion although Lewis L. Strauss is being considered only for confirmation as the head of that Department. It has nothing to do with the Atomic Energy Commission per se, because what has come out of Senator Anderson's discussion of Admiral Strauss's relations to that Committee is that Senator Anderson once regarded Strauss as a friend and said of him in 1953:

"We who are the members of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy were happy to report favorably the nomination of Admiral Strauss and I am glad to see that the Santa Fe New Mexican recently published an editorial entitled 'New AEC Chairman' commenting on the appointment in a most enthusiastic fashion." However, for some reason, not testified to by either gentleman, the friendship faded, the respect weakened, the relationship cooled and is now a public quarrel.

Were Senator Clinton Anderson of the temperament and nature of Senator Wayne Morse, one might expect that an angry mood might turn into vindictive persecution, but Senator Anderson is one of our more competent members of the Senate and his conduct in this situation is not understandable. There must be something more than meets the eye.

Meanwhile the picture presented is ugly. The President appoints Clare Luce as Ambassador to Brazil; Senator Wayne Morse bumps Mrs. Luce off and she resigns because Morse's conduct has destroyed her usefulness. The President appoints Admiral Lewis L. Strauss as Secretary of Commerce and Senator Clinton Anderson attacks him unjustly and without conclusive evidence. The President appoints Ogden Reid, former editor of the "New York Herald Tribune," to be our Ambassador to Israel, a post for which he is fitted by birth, education, environmental associations and experience, and the appointment is held up in the Senate.

Time For A Display Of Unity And Purpose

By David Lawrence

GENEVA—The champions of freedom have told the dictatorship of the Soviet Union that there is no substitute for free and uncoerced elections as a means of determining the true will of a people. Germany can be reunited and the city of Berlin can be a "united city" but only if the heavy hand of totalitarianism is lifted and the people are permitted to choose their own form of government.

This, in essence, is the big issue here at the conference of the foreign ministers of Britain, France, the United States and the Soviet Union. This is the real road to peace—the way to get rid of festering sores that slowly but surely bring on the conditions out of which world wars are born.

The so-called "package" plan isn't properly described if by this is meant that it is a take-it-or-leave-it proposition and that its several successive stages cannot be altered by sincere and honest negotiations. But its basic principle is unalterable. Either the status of a conquered province subject indefinitely to the military power of the conqueror is to remain, or else some progress is to be achieved toward the grant of full sovereignty to all of Germany as a unit.

For a long time the position of the Western Allies has been that there should be free elections. Former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles held out for this objective, but his position was misconstrued as meaning that no step could be taken toward reuniting Germany except by a free election. Actually, he pointed out a few months ago that free elections could be a separate stage and that other steps could be taken first.

This is why the new plan is separated into four stages. It is a well-thought-out formula which permits the two German governments to get together through a committee and work out electoral laws which can be submitted to all the German people for a vote in the next two and a half years. It provides for the making of a new constitution. It provides also for the meeting of a committee or council of West German and East German representatives to develop their own way of setting up unified machinery and a unified system of government.

This is an enlightened approach to a complex problem. Berlin's status becomes secondary in the sense that things remain about as they are during the transition period, but with better and clearer definitions about the access of Allied troops to the city. Also there are provisions for the gradual reduction of the size of the armies and a proposal for the withdrawal of any foreign troops later if the unified government doesn't want them there.

The basic principle is one of volition. Theoretically, no government allows foreign troops on its soil unless consent is given. If a reunited Germany wants to join the Warsaw Pact dominated by the Soviets or to affiliate with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, as the West German government does today, this would be a choice which the all-German government would be free to make.

The idea of weaving the whole German problem into a security program for all Europe is also fundamental in the Western plan. For how can there be peace inside Europe unless the status of the two German governments is clarified and the German people are restored to full control of their own territory? By recognizing Economic indicators all point to boom business conditions for the third quarter of this year, and probably for the fourth quarter as well.

Auto sales, a vital measure of prosperity, are running at a rate exceeded only by the record 1955 year. Employment is high, and unemployment while larger than desired, is dropping. Department store sales volume, freight car loadings, steel production and other figures all point to an extremely high level of industrial activity.

Of equal significance is the current absence of further signs of inflation. Food prices are remaining stable, and even dropping slightly in some categories. Fewer price increases than expected are being posted in durable consumer goods.

A by-product of boom business conditions is the improved outlook for a balanced budget this year. Corporate earnings are running higher than the Treasury anticipated when it made up its government revenue estimates. It is now likely that federal revenues will exceed the $77.1 billions estimated last January.

Throughout the Iron Curtain countries, where the fires of freedom still burn in the hearts of the enslaved, the Western plan is more than a ray of hope. It is a symbol of earnest desire not to surrender to the will of the tyrant but to hold high the banner of freedom and free elections. For in that direction alone lies the road to reduced armaments and the prevention of another world war. Many a citizen in the Soviet Union as well as in the so-called satellite countries is secretly praying that some day a miracle will happen and free elections will become available to them, too. For when peoples rule, there is no chance of war. Only dictatorship shows wars.

Some Sprightly Oldsters Who Really Live It Up

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

In a recent column on octogenarians, we invited anyone who is over 80 years old and active to write us. The response from men and women who have a keen mind and enjoy excellent health was unusually great. These sprightly oldsters have no desire to sit in the rocking chair and watch the world go by.

Many went on to other jobs after compulsory retirement. Others knit, raise irises, paint, read, or do their own household chores. An Illinois woman helped celebrate the 101st birthday of an active Maine telephone executive. She also called on a woman in that state who painted a house at age 85 and she saw another, aged 95, who "was having ing a permanent while puffing away at a cigaret until the air was blue."

Aunt Fanny, at 97, pads and covers wooden hangers with bits of silk and satin. She does this to keep down the stiffness in her fingers due to arthritis. Her stitching is exquisite and she donates the hangers to bazaars and charitable organizations.

A nonagenarian wrote: "I don't do any work but wash the dishes for a small family and piece quilts that I sell. Some have gone to Alaska." An 85-year-old mows his lawn, shovels snow, types, and drives his car to work daily. He reads a lot, particularly good literature.

An 80-year-old just completed another book, "Jobs for the Physically Handicapped" and a 91-year-old spends his time revising his book on engineering. An 87-year-old chap does volunteer work for the Easter Seal society. Letters came also from active newspaper men, ministers, physicians, and osteopaths.

Edward Laska, a mere 75-year-old charter member of ASCAP, writes that three active directors of this organization are in their middle eighties. They are Max Dreyfus, Louis Bernstein, and Otto A. Harbach, who wrote "Tea for Two" and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes." A woman wrote of getting married eight years ago to a hotel waiter who is 86, saying, "He is active in church affairs and attributes his longevity to faith in God."

The 1912 Bull Moose convention's official program featured photographs of Teddy Roosevelt and his running mate, Gov. Hiram Johnson, on the front cover. A couple of million programs had come off the presses when the publisher suddenly discovered he had not secured permission from the copyright owner to use the photos in question. Faced with the possibility of a costly damage suit, he grimly wired the owner: "Considering use of your photographs on covers of three million convention programs. Publicity break of a lifetime! What will you pay for this?"

The owner of the pictures wired back: "Will pay five hundred dollars and not a cent more." The relieved publisher answered, "Your offer ridiculously low, but being pressed for time, we accept."

One thing of which you may be sure: he who laughs last doesn't work for the fellow who told the story!

Ike Has Definitely Agreed To Hold Summit Conference In United States

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Though President Eisenhower shrugged off a press-conference question regarding a Khrushchev visit to the United States, inside fact is that shortly before Secretary of State Herter left Geneva, the two men came to a definite agreement on this point. The agreement was twofold:

1. Barring unforeseen Russian apocalyptic - upsetting at Geneva, there will be a summit conference in the United States.
2. Nikita Khrushchev will be invited to tour the United States — after the conference.

Ike made both decisions with some reluctance, for two reasons. First, John Foster Dulles has long been opposed; second, both the FBI and the Secret Service are worried sick over the prospect of protecting Khrushchev from crackpots and assassins in the United States. This is a very real worry, which the President shares. He says it gives him the shivers when he thinks of what might happen to the peace of the world if Khrushchev were injured in the United States.

However, Secretary Herter convinced the President he had no alternative. Since Vice President Nixon is going to Moscow with complete freedom to tour all Russian cities and even return home via Siberia, Herter argued that we will have to give Khrushchev the privilege of either opening the Soviet Trade Fair in New York or coming to a summit conference in the USA.

So if there is reasonable agreement at Geneva, Herter will propose the date of Aug. 1 or Aug. 3 to Khrushchev for a meeting here. Afterward, Mr. K. will be invited to tour the USA. But one condition will be attached — namely, that the tour take place only after the conference. Thus if Mr. K. is too negative at the summit he'll get a sour reaction from the American people down below. Herter hopes this will make for more success at the conference table.

Persistent Greek

Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco is the first American of Greek descent to govern a major American city. Plenty of Italo-Americans, ranging from the late Fiorello La Guardia of New York to Tom D'Alesandro of Baltimore, from Anthony Celebrezze of Cleveland to Louis M. La Follette of Detroit, have governed big cities. But only one Greek-American.

It now looks as if Mayor Christopher would have another unique distinction — that of inducing the top leaders of the world to hold the summit conference in the City of the Golden Gate.

Behind George Christopher is the drive and determination that induced his ancestors to preserve democracy through the centuries in one of the rockiest areas in southern Europe; the spirit which also induced his family to migrate to America. With the same persistence, he began some time ago inviting, urging, nagging Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier Khrushchev to hold the summit conference in San Francisco. Both liked the idea. Eisenhower didn't. But with two of the Big Four agreeable, the hard-working Mayor of San Francisco may get the summit conference held at the Golden Gate.

Political Diplomats

Sen. Bill Fulbright's policy of carefully scrutinizing politically appointed diplomats should mean real improvement in American diplomacy. But that shouldn't overlook the fact that some of our most outstanding diplomats have been politicians — beginning with Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson.

More recently Bill O'Dwyer,

purely a politician, went to Mexico as ambassador and proved a great hit. He was on a par with Josephus Daniels, the former Secretary of the Navy who ordered the U.S. Navy to fire on Tampico in 1917. Daniels was criticized before he came to Mexico, loved after he came. So was O'Dwyer. On the other hand, Walter Thurston, a career diplomat, and Francis White, who spent most of his life in the Mexican City, were flops in Mexico City. Bob Hill, a Republican political appointee, now Ambassador to Mexico, is extremely popular.

Likewise in India. Two career diplomats serving as Ambassadors to India had nowhere near the success of Chester Bowles, ex-Governor of Connecticut, a Democrat; or Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, a Republican.

Sometimes politicians have a flare for getting along with people which career diplomats lack. Young Ogden Reid, newly appointed envoy to Israel, has been working so hard in preparation for his job that he should be a great success. And the close scrutiny given him by Senator Fulbright will be one reason for it. Senate debate over confirmations is always healthy.

Summit-Go-Round

The FBI likes the idea of San Francisco as a summit site because the meetings would be held in The Presidio, the old Spanish fortress now used by the U.S. Army overlooking the Pacific Ocean. Security there would be easy. Only hitch might be an objection from Khrushchev against holding the conference in a U.S. Army installation. . . . Mayor Christopher operates a dairy company in San Francisco. A Republican, he ran for Senator in the GOP primary against Gov. Goodwin Knight, despite the fact that Knight made vigorous efforts to get him to withdraw. Christopher took the position that Knight three times had told him he was going to run for governor, not senator. On this pledge Christopher got into the race, so he was not going to get out. He not only stayed in, but most of his supporters backed Democratic Sen. Clair Engle in the final election.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The letter comes from Stan Mockford, prisoner number 66770 at the Federal House of Detention, 427 West St., New York City. He is an old friend, a good writing man, a short, nervous redhead who has spent as much time in prison as he has out. This time he is sure that he will make the grade because (1) he has become a true believer in God; (2) he has a school-age daughter whom he has never seen. He aches to have her respect him.

He will be free in two weeks, having finished a long term at Alcatraz and Atlanta for interstate car theft. I never turned my back to him because I knew that only a thin line of luck has kept us from changing places.

"It is possible," he writes, "that a way may be opening for me to regain my self-respect and, at the same time, make some amends for a lifetime of wrongdoing. I am particularly suited to this type of opportunity because I have been a criminal, because I have a little writing ability, because I am living proof that there is a little bit of good in even the worst of men."

"It hurts to know that one is unimportant and insignificant, but I can talk as well as write and who could explain better to the youth what happens when you select the wrong path? It could be my privilege to do good work with juvenile delinquents."

"The task is not easy. I know it. I have a naive notion that if I tell the young people that I have finally accepted Jesus Christ as my personal Saviour that they will understand that I no longer merely wish to do right, but will do right. I'm not a preacher; you know that I'm not a religious fanatic."

"The point is: can the young person understand what a treasure it is to attain peace of mind? To feel clean and untroubled? To be able to look any man in the eye without secret scheming and guilt?"

"I'm not sure. Perhaps it would be better to tell them how easy it is to get started on the wrong path. The criminal's crutch is his intelligence. He is so smart, in his mind that he is sure that no one will catch him. He forgets that at his enemy is not a policeman; it's the whole world. It's his intellect against all of theirs."

"Oddly enough, I receive daily encouragement from the men here. I've been in a lot of prisons and I have never seen this before."

"I have lived a number of centuries in my forty years, but I have never known fellow prisoners to encourage a man to go straight."

"Among those who pray daily for Anna (his wife) and Ann (his daughter) are a young couple associated with the work of Billy Graham. They sign their letters to me 'lovingly.' They write 'It is all so wonderful. The fact that you have so much to offer makes it doubly so. We thank God each day for bringing you 'Home.'"

"Such good, good people, Jim. Ana and Ann will arrive in New York this week to wait for my release. She got a loan to cover expenses. Ana writes: 'I have a child and a husband and we love each other. Please stop worrying. We will have guidance in everything we do from now on.'"

Mockford was born in South Africa. When he was a baby, he was brought to America. The United States Immigration Authorities, for a time, wanted to deport him when his term was done. This was sound thinking. We have enough trouble with home-grown convicts.

Still, this man begged and pleaded for a chance. Johnny Murray of The New York Mirror brought the case to the attention of Mrs. Bella Dodd, an attorney who knows what it is like to make a mistake. Mrs. Dodd knew that the prisoner didn't have a dime, but she interviewed him and, the more they talked, the more convinced she became that Stan Mockford would make a good citizen. She took the case.

There will be an immigration hearing and, with so many people praying for the good of this sheep, Mockford may get something he never gave—mercy.

In two weeks, he will be ushered through the front door of the Federal House of Detention in New York. At the foot of the steps, he will see a dark-skinned lady who is gifted with patience. Beside her, in prim Sunday dress, will be a little girl who will be silently rehearsing a new word: "Daddy."

There are ten million windows in New York. This is the story behind one of them, with bars. . . .

National Thrift In 13 Figures

The American economy must now be discussed in terms of billions of dollars. And it may not be long until Americans are talking in trillions.

So if there is reasonable agreement at Geneva, Herter will propose the date of Aug. 1 or Aug. 3 to Khrushchev for a meeting here. Afterward, Mr. K. will be invited to tour the USA. But one condition will be attached — namely, that the tour take place only after the conference. Thus if Mr. K. is too negative at the summit he'll get a sour reaction from the American people down below. Herter hopes this will make for more success at the conference table.

Persistent Greek

Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco is the first American of Greek descent to govern a major American city. Plenty of Italo-Americans, ranging from the late Fiorello La Guardia of New York to Tom D'Alesandro of Baltimore, from Anthony Celebrezze of Cleveland to Louis Mariani of Detroit, have governed big cities. But only one Greek-American.

It now looks as if Mayor Christopher would have another unique distinction — that of inducing the top leaders of the world to hold the summit conference in the City of the Golden Gate.

Behind George Christopher is the drive and determination that induced his ancestors to preserve democracy through the centuries in one of the rockiest areas in southern Europe; the spirit which also induced his family to migrate to America. With the same persistence, he began some time ago inviting, urging, nagging Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier Khrushchev to hold the summit conference in San Francisco. Both liked the idea. Eisenhower didn't. But with two of the Big Four agreeable, the hard-working Mayor of San Francisco may get the summit conference held at the Golden Gate.

Political Diplomats

Sen. Bill Fulbright's policy of carefully scrutinizing politically appointed diplomats should mean real improvement in American diplomacy. But it shouldn't overlook the fact that some of our most outstanding diplomats have been politicians — beginning with Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson.

More recently Bill O'Dwyer,

purely a politician, went to Mexico as ambassador and proved a great hit. He was on a par with Josephus Daniels, the former Secretary of the Navy who ordered the U.S. Navy to fire on Tampico in 1917. Daniels was criticized before he came to Mexico, loved after he came. So was O'Dwyer. On the other hand, Walter Thurston, a career diplomat, and Francis White, who spent most of his life in the career service, were flops in Mexico City. Bob Hill, a Republican political appointee, now Ambassador to Mexico, is extremely popular.

Likewise in India. Two career diplomats serving as Ambassadors to India had nowhere near the success of Chester Bowles, ex-Governor of Connecticut, a Democrat; or Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, a Republican.

Sometimes politicians have a flare for getting along with people which career diplomats lack. Young Ogden Reid, newly appointed envoy to Israel, has been working so hard in preparation for his job that he should be a great success. And the close scrutiny given him by Senator Fulbright will be one reason for it. Senate debate over confirmations is always healthy.

Summit-Go-Round

The FBI likes the idea of San Francisco as a summit site because the meetings would be held in The Presidio, the old Spanish fortress now used by the U.S. Army overlooking the Pacific Ocean. Security there would be easy. Only hitch might be an objection from Khrushchev against holding the conference in a U.S. Army installation. . . . Mayor Christopher operates a dairy company in San Francisco. A Republican, he ran for Senator in the GOP primary against Gov. Goodwin Knight, despite the fact that Knight made vigorous efforts to get him to withdraw. Christopher took the position that Knight three times had told him he was going to run for governor, not senator. On this pledge Christopher got into the race, so he was not going to get out. He not only stayed in, but most of his supporters backed Democratic Sen. Clair Engle in the final election.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The letter comes from Stan Mockford, prisoner number 66770 at the Federal House of Detention, 427 West St., New York City. He is an old friend, a good writing man, a short, nervous redhead who has spent as much time in prison as he has out. This time he is sure that he will make the grade because (1) he has become a true believer in God; (2) he has a school-age daughter whom he has never seen. He aches to have her respect him.

He will be free in two weeks, having finished a long term at Alcatraz and Atlanta for interstate car theft. I never turned my back to him because I knew that only a thin line of luck has kept us from changing places.

"It is possible," he writes, "that a way may be opening for me to regain my self-respect and, at the same time, make some amends for a lifetime of wrongdoing. I am peculiarly suited to this type of opportunity because I have been a criminal, because I have a little writing ability, because I am living proof that there is a little bit of good in even the worst of men."

"It hurts to know that one is unimportant and insignificant, but I can talk as well as write and who could explain better to the youth what happens when you select the wrong path? It could be my privilege to do good work with juvenile delinquents."

"The task is not easy. I know it. I have a naive notion that if I tell the young people that I have finally accepted Jesus Christ as my personal Saviour that they will understand that I no longer merely wish to do right, but will do right. I'm not a preacher; you know that I'm not a religious fanatic."

"The point is: can the young person understand what a treasure it is to attain peace of mind? To feel clean and untroubled? To be able to look any man in the eye without secret scheming and guilt?"

"I'm not sure. Perhaps it would be better to tell them how easy it is to get started on the wrong path. The criminal's crutch is his intelligence. He is so smart in his mind that he is sure that no one will catch him. He forgets that his enemy is not a policeman; it's the whole world. It's his intellect against all of theirs."

"Oddly enough, I receive daily encouragement from the men here. I've been in a lot of prisons and I have never seen this before."

"I have lived a number of centuries in my forty years, but I have never known fellow prisoners to encourage a man to go straight."

"Among those who pray daily for Ana (his wife) and Ann (his daughter) are a young couple associated with the work of Billy Graham. They sign their letters to me lovingly. They write 'It is all so wonderful. The fact that you have so much to offer makes it doubly so. We thank God each day for bringing you Home.'"

"Such good, good people, Jim. Ana and Ann will arrive in New York this week to wait for my release. She got a loan to cover expenses. Ana writes: 'I have a child and a husband and we love each other. Please stop worrying. We will have guidance in everything we do from now on.'"

Mockford was born in South Africa. When he was a baby, he was brought to America. The United States Immigration Authorities, for a time, wanted to deport him when his term was done. This was sound thinking. We have enough trouble with home-grown convicts.

Still, this man begged and pleaded for a chance. Johnny Murray of The New York Mirror brought the case to the attention of Mrs. Bella Dodd, an attorney who knows what it is like to make a mistake. Mrs. Dodd knew that the prisoner didn't have a dime, but she interviewed him and, the more they talked, the more convinced she became that Stan Mockford would make a good citizen. She took the case.

There will be an immigration hearing and, with so many people praying for the one straying sheep, Mockford may get something he never gave—mercy.

In two weeks, he will be ushered through the front door of the Federal House of Detention in New York. At the foot of the steps, he will see a dark-skinned lady who is gifted with patience. Beside her, in prim Sunday dress, will be a little girl who will be silently rehearsing a new word: "Daddy."

There are ten million windows in New York. This is the story behind one of them, with bars. . .

Dave Richards tossed a two-hitter and struck out 20 batsmen, a season high, in pitching the Grantsville Sluggers to a 6-1 decision over Wellsburg yesterday in a Pen-Mar Baseball League game at Grantsville.

Richards, who struck out 17 and lost a 1-0 verdict to Barrelville on Saturday, May 9, fanned the side in the third, fourth and fifth innings of yesterday's game, issued only three walks and had a no-hitter going until the seventh when Witt singled. The other Wellsburg safety was a two-bagger by Jones in the eighth frame. In the ninth, Wellsburg scored its only run by coupling a base on balls with a stolen base and passed ball. The victory gave Richards a 2-1 record and tied the Sluggers with Barrelville and Centerville for third place, the three clubs owning 3-2 records.

Grantsville collected ten hits, Joe Taylor sparking the attack with a double and two singles. Ronald Young smacked a two-bagger and Tucker Cain obtained two singles.

Hyndman Cops 5th In Row

Hyndman's Merchants whipped Flintstone's Farmers at Flintstone by the score of 8-5 and extended their winning streak to five games.

The undefeated Pennsylvanians scored all of their runs in the first seven innings and racked up a total of 14 hits. Corley was credited with the victory.

Lou Hite was the "big gun" for Hyndman with a double and three singles in five official at bats. Cliff Clites and Junior Bagley collected a double and single each.

John Price, who pitches for Fort Hill and plays second base for the Farmers, garnered a two-bagger and single while Jim Fletcher rapped a pair of singles and drew two bases on balls.

Ray Redinger of Flintstone provided the fielding highlight when he turned in a diving catch on Bob Cook's liner to left field in the 7th inning.

Cards Top Barrelville

Salisbury's Cardinals took over the runner-up spot in the league, 1½ games off the pace, by upsetting Barrelville on the latter's field by the score of 8-7.

Don Carey, who came on to relieve Jim R. Robertson in the third inning, received credit for the victory, the fourth in a row for the Cardinals. Jesse Markley, the first of three Barrelville pitchers, was tagged with the defeat. He was supplanted by Bobby Dawson in the fourth and Bobby Raines came on in the eighth to finish the game.

Gordon Oester accounted for three of Salisbury's ten hits while McLaughlin, Dick Lowery and Davis had two safeties each. LeRoy Morris was credited with two of the eight hits credited to Barrelville.

Corbett Beats Reds

Mt. Savage moved into the 500 class with a 3-3 record by turning back the Centerville Reds at Mt. Savage by the score of 7-6.

Gilbert "Lefty" Corbett, Paw Paw High School ace, making his debut on the rubber for Mt. Savage, issued a total of ten bases on balls but managed to squeeze through with a victory.

Manager Mel Nee of Centerville, who followed Oliver and Hale to the rubber in the 4th, limited the opposition to three hits and no runs in six innings. Oliver was charged with the loss.

Steve Faulkner of Mt. Savage opened the game with a home run and also had two singles to his credit. George Bishields hit safely three and "Cokie" Robertson blasted a triple and single. Glentis Streett and Veryl Nave shared four of Centerville's seven bingles.

Centerville rallied for three runs in the ninth and had the bases loaded when David Rose fled to Faulkner for the final out. Faulkner turned in a pair of brilliant running catches in center field for the winners. The scores:

Pale Hose Annex 2nd, 10-7; Killebrew Belts Two Homers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pedro Ramos hurled the Washington Senators to a 4-2 triumph over Chicago on a slick five-hitter Sunday but Nellie Fox and Sherm Lollar battered the White Sox to 10-7 revenge in the second game of a doubleheader.

After Ramos' deft job in the opener, which obliterated an eight-game Chicago win string, pitching was the smallest of factors in the second.

The White Sox belted four Washington pitchers for 13 hits but the Senators whacked winner Bob Shaw and Turk Lown for 15 while losing.

Harmon Killebrew smashed homers off each Chicago pitcher in the nightcap, the fifth game this season in which homerin' Harmon has hit a pair. He leads the league with 14.

Lollar drove in two runs with a double and two singles in the wind-up, while Fox accounted for two on three singles and a double.

The explosive Senators frightened Chicago with four runs in the eighth, including two on Killebrew's second homer, but the White Sox had enough of a lead and cushioned that with two runs in the ninth.

A crowd of 22,240 saw Jim Lemon and Reno Bertoia slam homers supporting Ramos in the opening game.

Grim Scores 10-0 Victory Over Yankees

New York Wins Opening Game Of Doubleheader, 3-2

NEW YORK (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics trounced the New York Yankees 10-0 Sunday as Bob Grim handcuffed his former teammates with two hits in the second game of a doubleheader. The Yankees won the opener 3-2 with a three-run rally in the ninth inning.

Grim, traded by the Yankees to the Athletics last June, was superb as he struck out seven and walked three. The only hits off the right-hander was Hank Bauer's single in the fourth and Tony Kubek's single in the fifth.

The Athletics teed off on starter Tom Sturdivant and three relievers for 12 hits, including home runs by Dick Williams and rookie Kent Hadley. Williams' four-bagger came in the second, with two mates aboard to feature a six-run assault on Sturdivant and Duke Maas.

The Yankees, within three outs of getting shut out in the first game, got to lefthander Bud Daley in the ninth.

Andy Carey opened by coaxing a walk off Daley. A wild pitch advanced him to second and he moved to third on a single by Enos Slaughter and scored on another single by pinch hitter Bill Skowron. Don Larsen singled to score Slaughter with the tying run.

With the outfielders playing shallow to cut off the potential winning run, Bauer lofted a fly to deep center.

Petersburg Plays Keyser In Regional Game On Tuesday

Keyser High School and Petersburg High School will clash in a West Virginia regional baseball semi-final Tuesday at 4 p.m., in Keyser, it was announced last night by Coach Frederick "Tack" Clark, of the undefeated Golden Tornado which has won nine games this season.

Petersburg High won sectional honors on Saturday by defeating Moorefield High's Yellowjackets at Petersburg by the score of 7-2.

Today at Charles Town, Harpers Ferry will play Charles Town and will battle it out with Berkeley Springs for the right to play the winner of the Keyser-Petersburg contest.

Keyser holds 13-8 and 13-3 decisions over Petersburg in P.V.C. games this season.

Littler's score, 18 - under-par, equalled the 72-hole score of Bo Winingner in 1953, the first year the Arlington was held.

He led Ferree by four strokes going into the final round, played with Ferree and watched him almost drop a 20-footer from off the 18th that would have brought a playoff. Ferree's putt lipped the cup and stayed up, before Littler came out of a trap to get a birdie and first money of $2,800.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UPI)—Steady Gene Littler survived a final rush by young Jim Ferree Sunday to win the $22,000 Arlington Hotel Open with a record-setting score of 270.

Littler's score, 18 - under-par, equalled the 72-hole score of Bo Winingner in 1953, the first year the Arlington was held.

Snead's 259 Is Lowest Of Career

Sam Wins His Own Golf Tournament

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Sam Snead polished off his best golf scoring of a long and illustrious career Sunday with a seven-under par 63 for an amazing 72-hole total of 259 and the fifth victory in his own tournament.

Snead, who will be 47 years old in 10 days, was only two strokes higher than the Professional Golfers Assn. record low for four rounds, his last final 36 hole total of 122 was four under it, and his third round of 59 was scored only once before in competition.

Snead's final score equalled the low for the 12-year-old event set by Ben Hogan in 1950.

The sub par scoring enabled Snead to pick up all the top money in the golf festival renamed for him in 1955. Besides the $2,300 first prize for outscoring 53 other pros, Snead also pocketed the entire $2,200 awarded for the low three best ball scores with amateur partners.

Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y., hauled himself into second place and $1,300 with a windup 65 for 270.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of St. Louis, Mo., dropped into third and $700 with a final 69 and 273. Al Bessink of Merchantville, N.J., took fourth by finishing fast at a 64 for 275.

The four rounds of 68-69-59-63 were the lowest ever shot by Snead. His previous low 72 hole score was 263 when he won this same tournament in 1951.

He barely missed equaling the all-time low record PGA score of 257 set by Souchak at San Antonio in the 1955 Texas Open.

Giants Top Cincy, 9-1

Andre Rodgers Hits Pair Of Home Runs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Stu Miller befuddled Cincinnati batters Sunday while Andre Rodgers hit two home runs and Willie Mays one for a 9-1 San Francisco victory.

Miller, 5-foot-11 junk ball artist won his second game of the season with a 5-hitter. He struck out six and didn't walk a man.

The Giants climbed on their one-time nemesis, Bob Purkey, for five runs. The Redleg right-hander beat the Giants four out of five times last season.

Rodgers gave the sellout Seals Stadium crowd of 22,725 something to cheer about early with his first inning leadoff homer. He banged another, his fourth of the season, in the same spot off reliever Tom Acker in the seventh.

Mays smashed a 2-run left field homer in the fifth.

Cincinnati scored its only run in the first on Vada Pinson's double and Jerry Lynch's single.

Hansgen Takes Sports Car Feature For Fourth Time

New Jerseyite Cops Finale At Airport

Others Repeat Their Triumphs Of Last Year

By ALBERT D. DARBY, JR.

Driving one of Briggs Cunningham's Lister Jaguars around the Cumberland Airport course at the record clip of 72 miles per hour, Walter Hansgen, the capable Westfield, N. J., driver, won the feature race, the hour-long Edgar D. Vandegriest Memorial yesterday afternoon for the third time in the last four years.

There was another large crowd for the Cumberland Lions Club-sponsored Cumberland National Sports Car Races yesterday from many states in the East, Midwest and South as well as from neighboring Canada. Henry K. Duke, the Lions Club president who served as general chairman for the three-day sports car racing program, estimated yesterday's crowd as more than 30,000.

Hansgen led from the start of the feature race but twice lost the lead to his relentless pursuer, Robert Holbert of Warrington, Pa. The Pennsylvania, driving a Porsche RS, gained the lead briefly on the 16th and 36th laps but each time Hansgen was able to move into first place the next time around.

45 Laps Completed

Hansgen and Holbert, the speediest drivers in a 30-car field for the final race, negotiated 45 laps around the 1.6-mile course in the hour-long grind. Holbert was clocked as only 1.18 seconds behind Hansgen, who repeated his successes of 1956 and 1958.

The New Jersey motorist, who went on from here last year to win the national championship in the Class C modified division, traveled 44 laps in winning the feature race last year. Hansgen first won the feature race in the Cumberland Sports Car competition back in 1953, the first year the races were contested here.

Donald Sessler, Lancaster, Ohio, who placed third in last year's finale, proved a consistent campaigner as he finished third again yesterday. He was followed by Fred Windridge, Washington, D. C., and Phil Forino, who drove other cars owned by Briggs Cunningham. Cunningham himself had to be content with an 11th place finish.

Hansgen was one of three repeat winners in yesterday's nine-race program. Denise McCluggage, sports car reporter for the New York Herald Tribune, proved her capabilities in the ladies race which she won for the third consecutive time when she negotiated the airport course 14 times during the 20-minute race. Mrs. Evelyn Mull, Haverford, Pa., who had finished third in 1955 and second in 1956 in the ladies race, was the chief rival to the woman sports writer and finished a respectable second.

The other 1958 winner who repeated was Ross Wees, Claysburg, Pa., who drove an AC Bristol, who won the sixth race for the second time in a row. It was a somewhat ironic victory for Wees, for he defeated the owner of the car he was driving, Arch Means of Altoona, Pa. Both the first and second place cars belong to Means. It was a mighty close finish at that only a few yards apart.

Repenstall Wins

Ray Heppenstall, driving a D-B, won the day's first race, the 30-minute contest for the Mayor and City Council trophy. A famous name in chemistry was the winner of the second race, the Formula III affair which was added to the program here for the first time a year ago. The winner was Alexis duPont of Wilmington, Del., who negotiated the airport course in his Cooper 21 times in the 30-minute race.

Robert M. Grossman, Nyack, N. Y., driving an Alfa Romeo, was the winner of the third race and Bruce R. Jennings of Towson, Md., operating a Porsche Carrera, led the 31-car field in the fourth race.

A man identified with the Cumberland Sports Car races since their inception in 1953 triumphed in the fifth race. Dr. M. R. J. Wyllie of Allison Park, Pa., driving a Lotus, had to move up from second place on the 31st lap to beat out Arthur Tweedale, Falls Church, Va., driving an Elva. Dr. Wyllie remained on top for the last two laps. Dr. Wyllie was the winner of the feature race in the 1954 Cumberland sports car competition. Miss McCluggage competed in this race but finished sixth.

The only American-built car to win a race yesterday was the Corvette in the eighth race, won by Frank Dominiani of Long Island, New York, who led through most of the contest.

Some 201 cars started in the nine races on yesterday's card. The biggest field was 31 cars in the fourth race. There were only 11 cars in two races, the Formula III event, and in the ladies' contest.

The only Cumberlander in the races, Herman Meloy of LaVale, was sixth overall in the third race.

ANOTHER VICTORY SMILE — Walt Hansgen has won the featured race of the Cumberland Lions Club sports car races so often you might think he would not even bother to smile. He flashed this smile yesterday after winning the Edgar D. Vandegriest Memorial race, an hour-long grind around the airport course. He has won the feature in 1953, 1956, 1958 and now for the fourth time in the seven years of sports car competition here.

WINS LADIES' RACE AGAIN — Miss Denise McCluggage of New York City proved a most consistent performer again yesterday at the Cumberland Municipal Airport, where she won the ladies' race for the third year in succession. Miss McCluggage, who writes sports car news for the New York Herald Tribune, finished sixth in the fifth race yesterday when she faced male competition.

Ten Home Runs Hit As Buccos, Chicago Split

Pittsburgh Beaten, 7-6, After 5-4 Win

By JOE MOOSHL

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates slammed out a total of ten home runs and split a doubleheader Sunday.

Pittsburgh took the opener 5-4 and the Cubs grabbed the nightcap 7-6.

A crowd of 32,017 — largest of the season in Chicago — saw relief ace Eloy Face put down a ninth inning Cub uprising in the opener after Pittsburgh had went in front on a pair of homers by Bill Mazeroski and another by Roberto Clemente.

The Cubs went in front in the second game on two-run homers by Dale Long and Ernie Banks and clinched the issue when they scored a pair of unearned runs in the seventh inning.

Face, who has a 6-0 record, relieved starter Vernon Law in the ninth with Pittsburgh ahead 5-3, runners on first and third. He walked pinch batter Jim Marshall to load the bases, got Tony Taylor to bounce into a run-scoring double play and forced Alvin Dark to bounce out to end the game with the tying run on third.

Long and Bobby Thomson homered for the Cubs in the first game.

Bosox Trounce Detroit, 10-1

Break 5-Game Losing Streak

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox broke out of a five-game losing streak Sunday with a 10-1 decision over the last-place Detroit Tigers in a game delayed 30 minutes by rain.

The Red Sox broke it open with a six-run uprising against starter and loser Paul Foytack in the second inning. A three-run triple by Pete Runnels was the key blow.

Dick Gernert and Marty Keough kept the attack going with solo homers off reliever Gerry Davis in the third and fifth innings. Gernert had three single to go with his fourth homer of the year for a perfect 4-for-4 day, while Keough drove in three runs.

Ike Delock spaced six hits and went the distance for his fourth win against a single loss.

Heppenthal Wins
Ray Heppenthal, driving a D-B, won the day's first race, the 30-minute contest for the Mayor and City Council trophy. A famous name in chemistry was the winner of the second race, the Formula III affair which was added to the program here for the first time a year ago. The winner was Alexis duPont of Wilmington, Del., who negotiated the airport course in his Cooper 21 times in the 30-minute race.

Robert M. Grossman, Nyack, N. Y., driving an Alfa Romeo, was the winner of the third race and Bruce R. Jennings of Towson, Md., operating a Porsche Carrera, led the 31-car field in the fourth race.

A man identified with the Cumberland Sports Car races since their inception in 1953 triumphed in the fifth race. Dr. M. R. J. Wyllie of Allison Park, Pa., driving a Lotus, had to move up from second place on the 31st lap to beat out Arthur Tweedale, Falls Church, Va., driving an Elva. Dr. Wyllie remained on top for the last two laps. Dr. Wyllie was the winner of the feature race in the 1954 Cumberland sports car competition. Miss McCluggage carried over in this race but finished sixth.

The only American-built car to win a race yesterday was the Corvette in the eighth race, won by Frank Dominianni of Long Island, New York, who led through most of the contest.

Some 201 cars started in the nine races on yesterday's card. The biggest field was 31 cars in the fourth race. There were only 11 cars in two races, the Formula III event, and in the ladies' contest.

The only Cumberlander in the races, Herman Meloni of LaVale, was sixth overall in the third race.

ANOTHER VICTORY SMILE — Walt Hansgen has won the featured race of the Cumberland Lions Club sports car races so often you might think he would not even bother to smile. He flashed this smile yesterday after winning the Edgar D. Vandegriest Memorial race, an hour-long grind around the airport course. He has won the feature in 1953, 1956, 1958 and now for the fourth time in the seven years of sports car competition here.

WINS LADIES' RACE AGAIN — Miss Denise McCluggage of New York City proved a most consistent performer again yesterday at the Cumberland Municipal Airport, where she won the ladies' race for the third year in succession. Miss McCluggage, who writes sports car news for the New York Herald Tribune, finished sixth in the fifth race yesterday when she faced male competition.

Ten Home Runs Hit As Buccos, Chicago Split

Pittsburgh Beaten, 7-6, After 5-4 Win

By JOE MOOSHL

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates slammed out a total of ten home runs and split a doubleheader Sunday. Pittsburgh took the opener 5-4 and the Cubs grabbed the nightcap 7-6.

A crowd of 32,017 — largest of the season in Chicago — saw relief ace Eloy Face put down a ninth inning Cub uprising in the opener after Pittsburgh had went in front on a pair of homers by Bill Mazeroski and another by Roberto Clemente.

The Cubs went in front in the second game on two-run homers by Dale Long and Ernie Banks and clinched the issue when they scored a pair of unearned runs in the seventh inning.

Face, who has a 6-0 record, relieved starter Vernon Law in the ninth with Pittsburgh ahead 5-3 runners on first and third. He walked pinch batter Jim Marshall to load the bases, got Tony Taylor to bounce into a run-scoring double play and forced Alvin Dark to bounce out to end the game with the tying run on third.

Long and Bobby Thomson homered for the Cubs in the first game.

Bosox Trounce Detroit, 10-1

Break 5-Game Losing Streak

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox broke out of a five-game losing streak Sunday with a 10-1 decision over the last-place Detroit Tigers in a game delayed 30 minutes by rain.

The Red Sox broke it open with a six-run uprising against starter and loser Paul Foytack in the second inning. A three-run triple by Pete Runnels was the key blow.

Dick Gernert and Marty Keough kept the attack going with solo homers off reliever Gerry Davis in the third and fifth innings.

Gernert had three single to go with his fourth home of the year for a perfect 4-for-4 day, while Keough drove in three runs.

Ike Delock spaced six hits and went the distance for his fourth win against a single loss.

Bel Air To Open Race Meet Today

BEL AIR, Md. (AP) — Maryland's five-track "halter" season opens here Monday with the first 9-race card at a minor track in the state.

There also will be an "under new management" sign posted. The Polan Brothers of Baltimore — Alvin, Bernard and Joseph — purchased the track several months ago.

The brothers, who operate a chain of variety stores, have completed the first phase of an extensive modernization program.

A crowd of 6,000 is expected to be on hand for the opening, with post time at 1:30 p.m. Invaders from the Maryland major circuit will be featured in the Bel Air Inaugural, the eighth race.

Timer Dies
WASHINGTON (AP) — The man behind the scoreboard clock at Griffith Stadium here and Byrd Stadium in College Park, Md., died of a heart ailment here Saturday.

Paul T. (Bottle) Box, 58, had been the unofficial timekeeper for Washington Redskins professional football games here for 21 years. He was a high school sports star here in the 1920s.

In letters to the legislators, Tawes asked them to resist the Eisenhower Administration proposal.

Tawes said he has been advised that the state would lose some $1,800,000 in 1960 with an even further reduction the following year.

The governor said 10 of the 14 counties would be affected seriously by any reduction. They are Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Harford, Prince Georges, Montgomery, Charles, Cecil, Frederick, St. Mary's and Washington Counties.

The other four counties which receive smaller amounts, Tawes said, are Calvert, Kent, Howard and Worcester.

Md. Methodists Face Shortage Of Ministers

SALISBURY, Md. (AP)—Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam appointed 221 ministers to one-year terms as the four-day Peninsula Annual Conference ended Sunday.

Of the appointments, 62 represented changes in assignments. The ministers will make their first appearances at their new churches next Sunday. There were 48 changes last year.

The changes by district included: Dover (21), Easton (14), Salisbury (11) and Wilmington (16).

The conference delegates were told that since Methodism is experiencing a ministerial shortage, about 65 of the ministers are supply pastors—or those who have not yet completed a full course of study and received seminary degrees. Some of the supply pastors are students at Wesley Theological Seminary in Washington.

Because of the ministerial shortage, seven small churches in the Easton district will be closed and their approximately 200 members will attend nearby churches.

The churches to be closed include: Chateau Church on the Friendship charge at Airey; Bethlehem and Choptank churches on the Preston charge; Matthews-town Church on the Hillsboro circuit; Tiny Church on the Rock Hall Circuit, and the Cardova and Starr churches at Wye Mills.

Bishop Oxnam gave the closing day sermon to an overflow crowd of about 1,000 in Bethesda Methodist Church here.

The bishop urged church laymen to release creative genius around the world to produce "freedom, justice and brotherhood."

"We live in revolutionary times," he said while referring to Asia and Africa, "and our commandment is still 'go ye into the world.'"

Two Men Die In Accidents Near Elkins

Police Blame Excess Speed

Excess speed was blamed for two separate highway accidents which claimed the lives of two young men who were thrown from automobiles near Elkins, W. Va., over the weekend.

Dead are Willard Shomo, 23, of Junior, W. Va., and Jimmy E. Hayes, 18, of Elkins.

Two other persons were injured in the accidents. Ronald Skidmore, 18, also of Junior, was riding in the car driven by Shomo. He sustained a head injury.

Leonard J. Boggs, 19, formerly of Elkins, now residing in Cleveland, was the driver of the car in which Hayes was a passenger, and was injured in the crash.

Authorities said last night Boggs will be charged with negligent homicide.

Authorities said Shomo was thrown from the car after it went out of control on U. S. 250 about 10 miles west of Elkins. They said a right tire of the convertible blew out. The car went out of control into a ditch, hit a jagged cliff along the road, and turned over. The accident occurred about 11:20 p. m. Saturday.

Earlier that evening Hayes was killed in the accident which occurred on U. S. 33 about two miles east of Elkins. The convertible was reported to have been following another driver who hit the brakes to make a right turn.

Police said Boggs went to the wrong side of the road, tore out a number of mail boxes and all indications show that Hayes was catapulted from the vehicle and struck his head on a headwall along the highway.

Sign Starts Discussion

The razing of the old Windsor Hotel at the corner of George and Baltimore streets has got people here talking about the history of a jewelry store which once was located next door to the hotel at 160 Baltimore Street.

Removal of the old hotel, built about 1842, uncovered a City Jewelry Store sign on the Windsor Hotel side of the building at 160 Baltimore Street. People immediately conjectured that the structure next to the hotel had to be older, otherwise the jewelry store sign would have been against a blank wall of the hotel.

Further investigation showed that this structure at 160 Baltimore Street was not older than the hotel. It was built in 1861 by the late S. T. Little, who founded the store which still bears his name. The Little store remained at 160 Baltimore Street until 1904 so that the City Jewelry Store was started there sometime in the last 55 years.

The sign alongside of 160 Baltimore Street could have been observed from the street because the old Windsor Hotel used to have a porch all along its front. The sign was at the end of the porch. Later, the hotel was built out to the sidewalk covering the jewelry store sign.

Legion Auxiliary Prepares To Distribute Poppies

How the poppy became the memorial flower for America's war dead was described by Mrs. Maud Banzhof, president of Fort Cumberland Unit 13, American Legion Auxiliary, as the unit prepared for the annual observance of Poppy Day here Saturday.

She described how the little red flowers have been worn for 40 years in honor of those who gave their lives in the nation's defense.

The memorial poppy is a crepe paper replica of the wild European poppy which somehow survived and bloomed amid the devastation of the World War I battle front in France and Belgium, Mrs. Banzhof explained.

"As the entrenched battle front in that war remained in the same locality for months and years, the ground was churned by shells and nearly all vegetation was blasted away. The poppy was the only flower that seemed able to bloom in profusion under this condition."

"Soldiers noticed and talked about the poppy as it grew in the raw earth of the battle fields and cemeteries, providing the only floral tribute for the war dead. A soldier-poet wrote about it: In Flanders Fields the poppies blow, Between the crosses, row on row . . ."

First memorial poppies were worn in this country, she noted, at the time of the Armistice, and again the following spring when troops marched in victory parades. Among the first official actions of the newly formed American Legion and Legion Auxiliary was adoption of the poppy as their memorial flower.

Mrs. Banzhof told the auxiliary members that more than 20 million of the crepe paper flowers have been made for the Legion Auxiliary by disabled veterans of all three wars, working in convalescent workrooms in all parts of the country. Poppy-making has provided beneficial employment for thousands of these men during the winter and spring months.

Here in Cumberland, poppies will be distributed Saturday by members of the Legion Auxiliary and the junior group in return for contributions for the auxiliary's rehabilitation and child welfare funds, for the benefit of disabled war veterans and needy children of veterans.

Mrs. Banzhof said, "Wearing an American Legion memorial poppy is an individual gesture of devotion to the cause for which they died . . . the cause of free America."

Tawes Says Fund Reduction Would Hurt 14 Counties

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes has told Maryland's two senators and seven congressmen that 14 counties would face financial handicaps from a cut in federal funds for school districts serving military installations.

In letters to the legislators, Tawes asked them to resist the Eisenhower Administration proposal.

Tawes said he has been advised that the state would lose some $1,200,000 in 1960 with an even further reduction the following year.

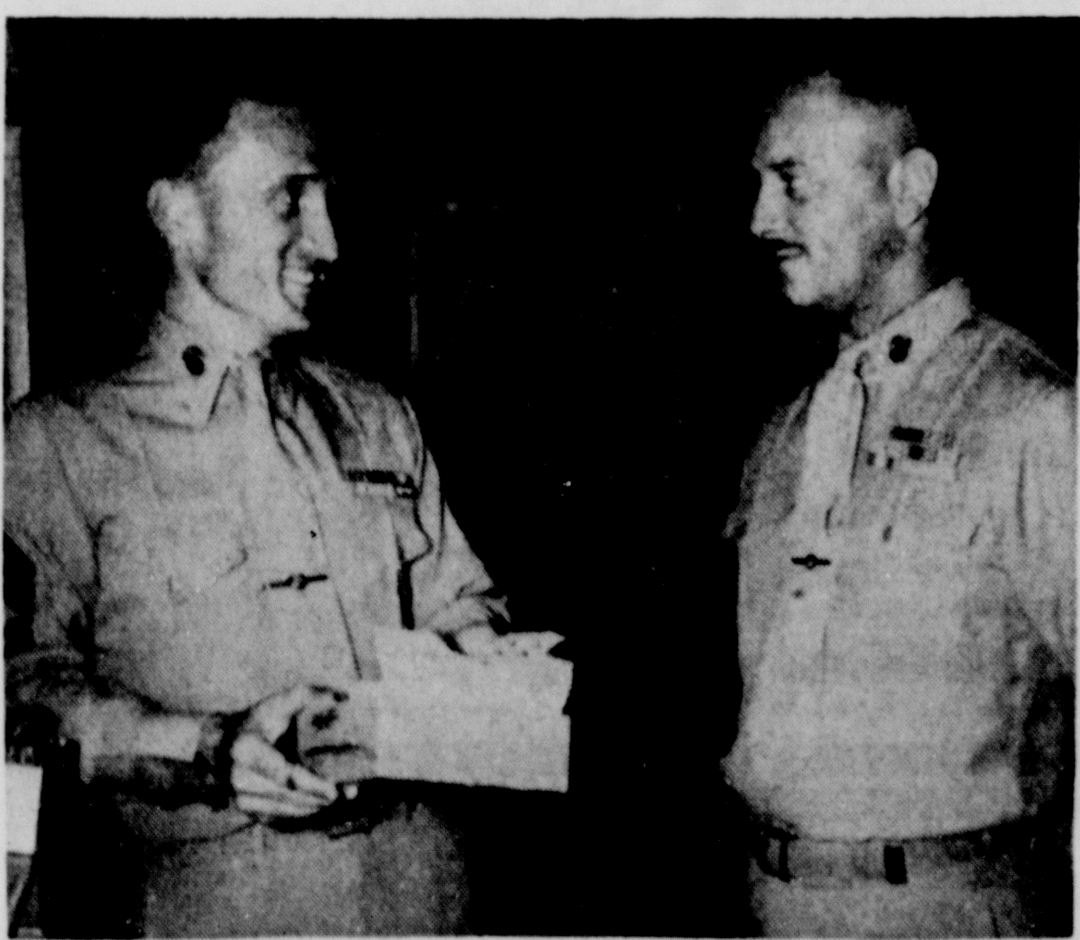

The governor said 10 of the 14 counties would be affected seriously by any reduction. They are Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Harford, Prince Georges, Montgomery, Charles, Cecil, Frederick, St. Mary's and Washington Counties.

The other four counties which receive smaller amounts, Tawes said, are Calvert, Kent, Howard and Worcester.

Coin Club 'Pot Luck' Auction Set

The Western Maryland Coin Club will hold a "pot luck" auction at its meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. on the second floor of City Hall.

John Dorn, program director, will offer for auction, to the highest bidder, several bags of coins. The only information which will be revealed will be the exact face value of the coins.

A number of Buffalo nickels, some of them of early dates, will also be auctioned.

The club has boasted membership to a total of 76, including 57 adult and 19 junior members, and has, officials believe, the best participation record of any club in the country.

In its current news bulletin, the club announced that penny albums were presented to 32 babies born here during National Coin Week April 12-18.

Members of the club will discuss plans for summer activities at Wednesday's meeting. In past years, the club has continued meetings in City Hall, held monthly public meetings at Constitution Park or discontinued meetings over the summer.

Md. Methodists Face Shortage Of Ministers

SALISBURY, Md. (AP)—Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam appointed 221 ministers to one-year terms as the four-day Peninsula Annual Conference ended Sunday.

Of the appointments, 62 represented changes in assignments. The ministers will make their first appearances at their new churches next Sunday. There were 48 changes last year.

The changes by district included: Dover (21), Easton (14), Salisbury (11) and Wilmington (16). The conference delegates were told that since Methodism is experiencing a ministerial shortage, about 65 of the ministers are supply pastors—or those who have not yet completed a full course of study and received seminary degrees. Some of the supply pastors are students at Wesley Theological Seminary in Washington.

Because of the ministerial shortage, seven small churches in the Eastern district will be closed and their approximately 200 members will attend nearby churches.

The churches to be closed include: Chateau Church on the Friendship charge at Airey; Bethlehem and Choptank churches on the Preston Charge; Matthews-town Church on the Hillsboro circuit; Tiny Church on the Rock Hall Circuit, and the Cardova and Starr churches at Wye Mills.

Bishop Oxnam gave the closing day sermon to an overflow crowd of about 1,000 in Bethesda Methodist Church here.

The bishop urged church laymen to release creative genius around the world to produce "freedom, justice and brotherhood."

"We live in revolutionary times," he said while referring to Asia and Africa, "and our commandment is still 'go ye into the world.'"

Two Men Die In Accidents Near Elkins

Police Blame Excess Speed

Excess speed was blamed for two separate highway accidents which claimed the lives of two young men who were thrown from automobiles near Elkins, W. Va., over the weekend.

Dead are Willard Shomo, 23, of Junior, W. Va., and Jimmy E. Hayes, 18, of Elkins.

Two other persons were injured in the accidents. Ronald Skidmore, 18, also of Junior, was riding in the car driven by Shomo. He sustained a head injury.

Leonard J. Boggs, 19, formerly of Elkins, now residing in Cleveland, was the driver of the car in which Hayes was a passenger, and was injured in the crash.

Authorities said last night Boggs will be charged with negligent homicide.

Authorities said Shomo was thrown from the car after it went out of control on U. S. 250 about 10 miles west of Elkins. They said a right tire of the convertible blew out. The car went out of control into a ditch, hit a jagged cliff along the road, and turned over. The accident occurred about 11:20 p. m. Saturday.

Earlier that evening Hayes was killed in the accident which occurred on U. S. 33 about two miles east of Elkins. The convertible was reported to have been following another driver who hit the brakes to make a right turn.

Police said Boggs went to the wrong side of the road, tore out a number of mail boxes and all indications show that Hayes was catapulted from the vehicle and struck his head on a headwall along the highway.

Sign Starts Discussion

The razing of the old Windsor Hotel at the corner of George and Baltimore streets has got people here talking about the history of a jewelry store which once was located next door to the hotel at 160 Baltimore Street.

Removal of the old hotel, built about 1842, uncovered a City Jewelry Store sign on the Windsor Hotel side of the building at 160 Baltimore Street. People immediately conjectured that the structure next to the hotel had to be older, otherwise the jewelry store sign would have been against a blank wall of the hotel.

Further investigation showed that this structure at 160 Baltimore Street was not older than the hotel. It was built in 1861 by the late S. T. Little, who founded the store which still bears his name. The Little store remained at 160 Baltimore Street until 1904 so that the City Jewelry Store was started there sometime in the last 55 years.

The sign alongside of 160 Baltimore Street could have been observed from the street because the old Windsor Hotel used to have a porch all along its front. The sign was at the end of the porch. Later, the hotel was built out to the sidewalk covering the jewelry store sign.
